

On 8 January 2026 the General Pharmaceutical Council's Investigating Committee considered an allegation in relation to Mr Ahmad Abdelnabi, registration number: 2234674 and determined to issue the registrant concerned with a warning in relation to the conduct alleged.

The Committee concluded that the appropriate outcome in this case is a warning with the wording of:

On 13 September 2024 Mr Abdelnabi was working as a locum at Cameolord Pharmacy (the 'pharmacy') when a patient attended seeking emergency hormone contraception (EHC).

During the consultation Mr Abdelnabi was short and dismissive. He did not provide EHC, making no notes of the consultation or his reasoning. He did not signpost the patient to alternative treatment or care options. The patient later discovered they were, in fact, pregnant and suffered a miscarriage.

Mr Abdelnabi's conduct breached the following standards for pharmacy professionals:

- 1 provide person-centred care*
- 2 work in partnership with others*
- 3 communicate effectively*
- 5 use professional judgement*
- 6 behave in a professional manner*

Such failings have the potential to harm individual patients and to undermine the wider reputation of the profession and public confidence therein. He must ensure there is no repetition of such conduct.

Mr Abdelnabi is warned that effective, compassionate, person-centred communication is key to providing effective pharmacy provision and that consultation decisions should be fully explained to patients and recorded, including signposting to alternative support where appropriate.

This warning will appear on the public facing Register for a period of 12 months.
